Economic Injury Disaster Loans

The U.S. Small Business Administration is offering low-interest, long-term federal disaster loans for working capital to small businesses and private, nonprofit organizations suffering substantial economic injury as a result of the Coronavirus (COVID-19) to all .

Upon a request received from a state's or territory's Governor, SBA issued under its own authority an Economic Injury Disaster Loan declaration.*

Administrator Jovita Carranza

As provided by the Coronavirus Preparedness and Response Supplement Appropriations Act that was recently signed by the President.*

Economic Injury Disaster Loans

- Beginning May 4, 2020, SBA will accept new Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) and EIDL Advance applications on a limited basis only, in order to provide unprecedented relief to U.S. agricultural businesses. The application is available at: www.SBA.gov/Disaster.
- At this time, only agricultural business, i.e. agricultural producer, applications will be accepted due to limitations in funding availability and the unprecedented submission of applications already received.
- For agricultural businesses that submitted an EIDL application through the streamlined application portal prior to the legislative change, SBA will process these applications without the need for re-applying.

Economic Injury Disaster Loans

- The new eligibility is made possible as a result of the latest round of funds appropriated by Congress in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.
 - Agricultural businesses includes those businesses engaged in the production of food and fiber, ranching, and raising of livestock, aquaculture, and all other farming and agricultural related industries (as defined by section 18(b) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 647(b)).
 - SBA is encouraging all eligible agricultural businesses with 500 or fewer employees wishing to apply to begin preparing their business financial information needed for their application.
